

Delaware Steps Up

COVID-19 Strategic Response Fund
Impact Report

March 2020-May 2022

WE ARE SO PROUD OF THIS COMMUNITY!

Over the past two and a half years, Delawareans have stepped up in a powerful and inspiring way to respond to the COVID-19 pandemic here in the First State.

Beginning in March 2020, Delawareans donated more than $5.3 million to the Delaware COVID-19 Strategic Response Fund, a partnership of the Delaware Community Foundation and Philanthropy Delaware.

We issued the final grants from that fund in May 2022, and – now that every dollar donated has been invested in communities throughout the state – we are pleased to share this report on the full impact of your generosity.

Over the past two years, the fund awarded 294 grants to more than 200 nonprofit organizations and engaged more than 40 volunteers in determining how to distribute the money. Hundreds of thousands of Delawareans have been touched by these grants in countless ways.

In the early phases of the pandemic, the Strategic Response Fund made weekly grants to address urgent needs, including emergency food, housing, medical care and other services. This program was recognized as the fastest and most responsive pandemic grantmaking program in the country.

As the community’s needs changed, the fund began awarding broader grants to help fund virtual programming and services, build outdoor facilities, increase support to those isolated by the pandemic and more.

Although the pandemic continues to evolve, we are taking a moment to thank you and celebrate the power of community in responding to this crisis. We hope you will celebrate with us and find joy in what your generosity has achieved.

COMMUNITY NEEDS GRANTS

The Community Needs Grants program invested a total of $4,083,705 in the community, through 264 individual grants to 193 nonprofit organizations up and down the state. The vast majority of the money addressed basic human needs – particularly early in the pandemic – including food, shelter, medical care and safety equipment. Community Needs Grants also helped nonprofits provide services related to education, the arts, and basic human connection at a time when people needed it most.

Literacy Delaware learner Paco was one of many students who continued learning through the pandemic thanks to a virtual program powered by a Community Needs Grant. With the $15,567 grant, Literacy Delaware bought Chromebooks, trained tutors and launched a new virtual program to ensure English-language learners and other students continued making progress when in-person sessions were not possible.

Read Aloud Delaware received two Community Needs Grants totaling $30,000 to continue its statewide language development work in children birth to age 3, even in the virtual environment.

COMMUNITY NEEDS GRANTS

When schools closed during the pandemic, many children didn't have access to the food services they relied on. The Rehoboth-based Harry K Foundation kept food pantries open throughout the state, operated a mobile food van and launched other creative programs to keep children and their families fed. Community Needs Grants totaling $38,000 helped support this work.

Future Promises received a $10,000 Community Needs Grant to expand its Wilmington youth development program to include a combination of virtual and in-person options. This grant was part of a special initiative targeting small nonprofit organizations led by and/or serving people of color.

VISION GRANTS

As the community adapted, the Vision Grants Program was established to help Delaware nonprofits leverage the crisis of the pandemic, turning it into an opportunity to rethink and restructure their work. The fund awarded $611,520 in Vision Grants to support nonprofits' efforts to collaborate, streamline, plan and invest in long-term solutions that will elevate their ability to serve the community long after COVID-19 is gone.

With a $50,000 Vision Grant, Christina Cultural Arts Center in Wilmington launched Our Voices, an arts-focused afterschool program in the fall of 2021 for low-income youth. CCAC also received $33,000 in Community Needs Grants for technology to keep students connected through virtual programming when it was unsafe to gather in person. Pictured is Our Voices participant Kamariya Norton.

Christina Cultural Arts Center - $50,000 for an arts-focused after-school program for low-income students

Community Education Building - $10,000 to coordinate remote academic and social emotional support for students and families

Community Legal Aid Society (two grants) - $75,000 to fund research about providing legal counsel to low-income individuals in eviction cases

Cornerstone West CDC - $25,000 to help expand existing businesses and advance other development projects

Delaware Art Museum & Delaware College of Art & Design - $25,000 to plan a certification program to support careers in the arts

Housing Alliance Delaware - $25,000 to research a statewide solution to homelessness among families

Jewish Family Services - $35,000 to provide emotional and mental support to unemployed individuals during the pandemic

Literacy Delaware - $25,000 for planning to reach adults with low literacy statewide

Love INC of Mid-Delmarva - $50,000 to centralize distribution of food and other resources in Sussex County

One Village Alliance - $25,000 to plan the Freedom: Urban Wellness Center, a collaboration of One Village Alliance and 38 churches

REACH Riverside - $50,000 to support construction of affordable housing, case management and training

Rodel - $25,000 to support planning for transforming child care access and affordability statewide

Delaware Division of Libraries - $50,000 to launch telehealth services and kiosks for individuals to access social services

Spur Impact - $15,000 to increase engagement and support to Delaware nonprofits

Sussex County Habitat for Humanity - $25,000 for a study on home conditions statewide

Tech Impact - $76,520 for a feasibility study to address digital inclusion and to create an online community helpdesk (two separate grants)

The Way Home - $25,000 to provide formerly incarcerated veterans with wrap-around services

The Delaware Division of Libraries launched comprehensive telehealth services, as well as private kiosks for clients to use to access virtual health and social services and onsite social workers to help them navigate. A $50,000 Vision Grant helped launch the work at Seaford Public Library, and other funders have stepped up to help build out the program and expand it to other libraries in Sussex County.

For more information about the impact of the Vision Grants program, visit delcf.org/vision.

SPECIAL GRANTS

The fund also awarded $638,390 in special grants to address specific community needs as they emerged. These opportunities were identified by the volunteer grant reviewers and councils as they reviewed hundreds of incoming grant applications, identified trends and monitored the evolution of the pandemic.

Bayhealth - $60,000 for ongoing COVID-19 response

Beebe - $60,000 for ongoing COVID-19 response

Challenge Program - $45,000 to provide on-the-job experience working on professional construction projects

ChristianaCare - $60,000 for ongoing COVID-19 response

Delaware Alliance for Nonprofit Advancement - $53,000 for consulting with nonprofits working on Vision Grant projects

DCF Journalism Internship Program - $25,000 for interns to help newsrooms increase coverage of hard-hit Black and brown communities

DCF Marketing - $25,000 toward the production and publication of Strategic Response Fund reports and videos

Donate Delaware - $50,000 for personal protective equipment for schools and nonprofits

NERDiT Now - $75,000 for computers for nonprofit organizations

Sussex County Relief Fund - $50,000 for emergency assistance to individuals and families in need

TidalHealth Nanticoke - $35,390 for ongoing COVID-19 response

United Way COVID-19 Rapid Response Fund - $100,000 for emergency assistance to individuals and families in need

DCF Journalism Internship Program

Community leaders called for better local news and information about the pandemic, particularly relating to Delaware's hard-hit Black and brown communities. A special $25,000 grant funded the DCF Journalism Internship Program, which helped local news outlets hire four interns – including Docquan Louallen, pictured at DelawareOnline/The News Journal – to expand coverage of these communities.

Sussex County Relief Fund

COVID-19 had an outsized impact on Sussex County's Hispanic communities, particularly during the spring and summer of 2020, when a group of "hot spots" – areas with large numbers of COVID cases – emerged in the southern part of the state. A $50,000 grant from the Strategic Response Fund helped provide emergency relief and services to Hispanic people facing the difficulties of the pandemic compounded by other barriers, including language, limited access to medical care, close working and living arrangements, lack of documentation and more.

As we close the Delaware COVID-19 Strategic Response Fund and reflect on this remarkable community effort, we are grateful to the dozens of foundations, corporations, businesses and individuals who contributed. We are particularly grateful to these major donors:

- Longwood Foundation ($2 million)
- Barclays ($700,000)
- New Castle County ($500,000)
- Welfare Foundation ($300,000)
- CSC ($100,000)
- Crestlea Foundation ($100,000)
- Fund for Women ($100,000)
- Highmark Blue Cross Blue Shield Delaware ($100,000)
- Jesse Ball Du Pont Fund ($100,000)
- Laffey-McHugh ($100,000)
- Discover ($100,000)
- DCF ($75,000)
- DuPont ($75,000)
- Gates Foundation ($65,000)
- Jeff and Rhonda Banning Foundation ($50,000)
- Morris, Nichols, Arsht & Tunnell ($50,000)
- Comenity Bank ($75,000)
- M&T ($50,000)
- WSFS Bank ($25,000)
- Fulton Bank ($35,000)
- JP Morgan Chase ($30,000)
- Bank of America ($25,000)
- TD Bank ($25,000)
- Capital One ($25,000)

The Delaware Community Foundation waived all administrative fees for this fund so that 100% of donations went to organizations helping people in need.

The COVID-19 pandemic left many families and their pets in great need. In the summer of 2021, three local animal shelters teamed up to provide pet food and cat litter to Delaware families. Faithful Friends, Delaware Humane Association and Delaware SPCA hosted four Drive-Up Pet Food Banks serving over 1,900 individuals, 1,419 dogs and 1,948 cats throughout the state. A $28,000 Community Needs Grant helped support this work.

We are grateful to the dozens of community members who guided our decisions about how to most effectively award grants from the Strategic Response Fund. These individuals gave generously of their time and expertise to serve our community.
